

Vision for a Post-Industrial Seekonk Corridor

Join URI students from Landscape Architecture and the Masters of Marine Affairs program for an end of semester presentation offering a view of a post-industrial Seekonk Corridor. The students have examined an area between the Henderson and Washington Bridges which includes portions of Providence and East Providence along the Seekonk. See what the students are proposing and take advantage of this opportunity to ask questions and speak with the students about their ideas pertaining to land use, circulation, bicycle and pedestrian movement, green infrastructure, access to the river and sea level rise. These questions and others are important to consider while developing a vision for the future.
